TWO PRESEXTERIES MET.

The Date for Installation of Rev. Dr. Fiske Not Decided.

The Washington Presbytery met vester ly morning at the Church of the Coverant to perfect the details for the installation of the Rev. Asa S. Fiske, of Utica, N. Y. as pastor of Ganton Temple Memorial, but in the absence of the letter of release or dismissal of Dr. Fiske by the Cayuga Presbytery, to which he belongs, final action was deferred.

The delay in the arrival of the dismissal rom the Cayaga Preshytery, the Rev. Dr. Ramsdell said yesterday afternoon would cause no other acconvenience further thus the pusiponement for a few days ager of the ceremony of installation. The postponement, he said, was necessitated y the fact that the Cayuga Presbytery id not convene until 3 o'clock yesterlay afternoon, while the local body met

The meeting adjourned to meet on Sattime the date of the installation of the istor-elect will be determined.

Army Officers Retired.

WAR VESSELS ON THE LAKES Steps Looking to the Abrogation of the Agreement of 1817. Chairman Hitt of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs has called upon the Secretary of State for all documents and evidence as to the status of the prohition against warship building on the great lakes. The resolution introduced by Representative Smith contemplates the affirmative action of the House before the Secretary of State learns officiall) of the request for information, but Mr. Bitt, being satisfied that the Secretary can have no reason for witholding the engagements for today. While teas are facts, has sent a copy of the resolution just us charming as can be and afford direct to Mr. Olney with a polite request for the information at the department's earliest convenience. The House and the committee will speedily be in position to act intelligently on the resolution of Congressman Burton of Obio, which directs the Secretary of State to begin negotia-tions looking to the abrogation of the agreement of 1817.

CARTOONIST HARRY FURNISS

The First Appearance in Washington of the English Entertainer.

Skillful Sketches of Well-Known Characters in the Houses of Parliament.

Harry Furniss, the round little gentlema: with the outurn beard on his chin and scarcely erough hair on the top of leb head to suggest a color, appeared yester day afternoon at the Columbia Theater in one of his illustrated talks.

Mr. Furniss' Caricature of Glad stone.

There was a distressingly small audience by the character of the attendance, for nearly everyone present was somehody, in the lingited sense of that vague word which capties distinction and quality. In the on hestra sat Secretary Herbert, Postmaste General Wilson and Charles D. Bell, and couedian William H. Crane, from his ox, seemed to thoroughly enjoy the British hen or of the comedian consist the curtain line from him.
Yesterday's was the first of four lecture matinees which Mr. Furniss gives in Washington this week. His subject was "The Homors of Parliament." Until this skillful sketcher pointed out the fact that the Houses of Lords and Commoners were it reality a very funny affair the logi Britisher supposed that it was a very cober and carnest assemblage. At this time, when the cartoonist has been so ong us, it is hard to say how deeply he has impressed us, but, at all events, we have long ago learned the les-ion about our legislative assemblies of which Mr. Furniss was the disciple in Eng

The artist does not actually sketch in the ourse of his talk. It is not a "black-board lecture" More satisfactory results are obtained from his present mode. His sketches have allbeen prepared beforehand and many of them are very elaborate in detail and they are cast by the stereop ticon in enlarged form on to the screen. this way time is saved and proximity to the stage is not necessary.

After heaving the artist's exposition of the formers of Parliament, it seems quite bysous why he should have chosen the high legislative houses for his fun, for as the cap and bells are the insignia of the jester, so are they the most important feature in Parliament. According to Mr. Purniss' exposition hats are everywhere. and the poor members must feel pretty nuch the same way about the bells.

The talk began with a description of the Commons at 11 in the morning, when the porters are cleaning up. Congress begins busines shortly after this hour. Parliament is an echoing waste. Commons does not sit until 3 o'clock and Lords not until 4. When they "sit" every one stands, prayer being the first thing in order, and the members, who atother times wear their hats during the sitting, place their hats on the benches. This, according to the punning Punch, is "the hattitude of the House before prayers."

Mr. Furniss described a variety of place incidents and types to be found about the House, and closed the first part of his talk with an effort to throw some light on the oratorical style of an Icish nem ber. The latter part of the talk was de cidedly the more interesting. Here he dwelt on personalities, and explained the important part played by the bell in the disturbance of the rest, meals, and even furtations, of the members. These bells call them to the floor when the clerk fails to count forty present. Some particularly humorous sketches were hown of Chamberlain, Harcourt, Balfour Morley and others, and Mr. Forniss gave comical imitations of the professor type entering the House; of now Disraelt slept with one eye open; how Moriey walked as if ne were measuring carpet; of Labouchere sideling in as if he were led by the ear; of someone or other bobbing as if he were suspended by a rope; of Harcourt, the giant, and Randolph Churchill's whiskers which latter suggests that the whiskers of a certain-Senator from Kansas will ap-peal to the English caricatorist. The talk closed with a vivid description by word and cartoon of Mr. Gladstone arriving in the House and making a speech. Mr. Fur mss is the caricaturist who discovered

Gladstone's collar; he disclaims invention Throughout the entertainment Mr. Funiss demonstrated himself a fluent talker with much appreciation of humor and a artist of distinction and excellent gift c caricature. His style suggests the elder Nast. The matinee was thoroughly en joyable and doubtless his talk on Ameica in a hurry, impressions for which h athered in a brisk visit to us four year ago, will appeal even more amusingly to the audience, for we will there be literally at home.

Botanical Wonders,

Madake, a Japanese species of bamboo grows to a height of forty feet. The flower stalk of the Adam's needle bears from 200 to 400 flowers in a season The kernel of the snake nut, a Brazilian oddity, looks exactly like a coiled serpent Every head of red clover consists of about 60 flower tubes, each of which contains an infinitesimal quantity of honey.

A curious-shaped plant growing in Arizon and other desert regions of the great Southwest is called "Our Lord's candlestick." The leading botanists of the world are unanimous in the opinion that plants grow faster between 4 and 6 o'clock a.m. than at any other time.

Bistop Culver, in his pamphlet entitled 'A Million Founds Sterling for a Elack Flower," says that no perfectly black flower has ever been produced

ST. PAUL'S JOYOUS WORDS

The Apostle's Life a Model for All to Emulate.

Bishop Saiterlee's Discourse at St, Paul's Church Lust Night-Report of the Year's Work,

Dr. Henry Y. Satterlee, bishop of the Washington diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, delivered a discourse last evening before a large congergation at St. Paul's Church, on Twenty-second street, near Washington Circle, taking for his theme the life and self-sacrifice of the apostle from whom the church took its

It was the bishop's first sermon in that church, on a St. Paul's Day, and the occasion had the additional interest of being an anniversary-the thirty-first annual festival in commemoration of the founding

Dr. Satterlee motored St. Paul as the greatest sufferer for Christ among all the early martyrs, and yet in all his writings there were the words of joy and peace and love and consolution. In the midst of all of his perils by land and sea, among friends and enemies, there was the same spirit manifested, and his words were the most joyous of all in all the ages.

He referred, as a striking example of this, to Paul's epistle to his own people, the Philippians, written with one hand claimed to that of his guard and from a prison cell. This, he said, is what the Christian life should be.

From a human point of view, Paul's life was a great failure, but he planted the seed of the Christian Climen in Rome The Church of Christ and the empire of Rome arose together. Augustus became king and Christ became the head of the universal kingdom, and the two kingdoms existed side by side for centuries. It was Paul, not Peter, who is mentioned in history as the moneer.

Paul was willing to sacrifice himself. He saw in the future the great results which were to flow from his martyrdom. Dr. Satterlee closed with a tribute to the workers in St. Paul's Church, and referred with pleasure to the fact that it was founded, and had continued to be, a free church.

"God bless the church that begins as a free church." he added, "for it indicates free religion."

Preceding the sermon the rector of the parish, Dr. Harding, read the annual report of the church guild, which, he said, embraced the work of ten different so-cieties. The total of the collections for the year was $1,940.59, of which sum $804 had been expended in the relief of others. An aggregate of $697.53 had been obtained from the personal labor of the members of several of the auxiliaries Relief had been supplied in thirty case of filness, such as medicines, food and rai-ment, and an appeal to the charitable was made for bedelothing and garments for the sick. The relief fund had been expended at the small cost of $10. The Dorcas Saclety distributed 426 garments during the year.

The Armenian relief fund accumulated had aggregated $236.10, and upon this Dr. Satteriee made favorable comment in his discourse. He repeated what he had once said to the Emperor of Russia in behalf of the Christians in Turkey, and saidmuch to encourage the work for their relief. The church society having this movement in MINUTES. This is no fiction. Every sufferer is carnestly invited to try one Box of these Pilis charge numbers but thirty members. At the conclusion of the services there was a social reupien in the parish half.

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani Received by the President.

QUITE AN INFORMAL CALL

She Had Requested the Privilege of Paying Her Respects, and It Had Been Granted-A Very Cordial Greeting Extended to Her. Did Not See Mrs. Cleveland.

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani paid a personal visit to President Cleveland yesterday. It was entirely informal and was so designated in the note sent by the deposed monarch to the President, requesting the privllege of calling, and the answer of the let ter granting it. Joseph Heleluie, the agent and secretary of Liliuokalani, and Julius N. Palmer, of Boston, the American friend Who accompanied her to Washington, went to the White House yesterday neorning with an autograph note from the ex-queen addressed to the President.

She asked merely that he receive her informally, in a personal capacity, bas-ing the request on the ground that it was a custom in her country for the head of government to receive foreign visitors of distinction. Shortly after noon the President sent a note to Mr. Helelule ap-pointing 3 o'clock as the hour at which he would be pleased to have her call. At the appointed time Liliuokalani, Mis-

Kin Nabaolelena, her companion-in-waiting. Mr. Helelule and Mr. Palmer drove up to the White House in a carriage and were amediately shown to the Blue Room. The ex-queen was tastefully dressed. She walked with dignity across the lobby to the private corridor, her step slightly hes-

The greeting between the President and the former queen was extremely cordial Mr. Cleveland, entering the room, adcanced with outstretched band, and as he grasped that of Liliuokalam he exclaimed heartily: "I am very glad you bought of calling on me." The President invited the ex-queen and her companions to be seated and then entered into a oleasant conversation with the former pleasant conversation with the fathers. They talked about the death of Minister Willis and the ex-queen spoke of him in words of praise. "Yes," answered Mr. Cleveland, "he always filled whatever official position be occupied with credit o tunself and his country

There was nothing said about restoration, out Liliuokalion took occasion to mank the President for his withdrawal of the treaty of annexation sent to the Senate by President Harrison four years ago. When Liliuokalani inquired about Mrs. Cleveland's health, the President remarked hat she had been preparing to go out a he came down stairs, but he would asco tain whether she was in or not. Be alled a messenger, who informed him at Mrs Cleveland had gone out walking few minutes before. These things former the bulk of the conversation, which was nal and personal from beginning to

The call lasted about fifteen minutes and after making their adicus to the President Liliuokalani and her attendants went out into the freezing atmosphere again and entered their carriage. They wen frivenitumediately to the Shoreham, where the party is stopping. The queen was received delightfully," said Mr. Palmer to a reporter of the United Associated Presses. "Her reception bount not have been pleasanter, and the President showed himself to be a most agreeable and kindly gentleman." Mr. Palmer said that no plans had been made did not know how long she would remain n Washington.

This is the second time Liliuokalani has een President Geveland. Ten years ago she accompanied the then queen, Kapeolant, her sister in law and the consort of King Kalakana, on a visit to the United States. They were received officially by Mr. then serving his first term and were shown many official courtesies while here.

The ex-queen, Miss Nahaolelena, and Mr. Releinie attended noonday service at St. John's Episcopal Church Sunday, walked the few tlocks between the Shore-ham and the church. Otherwise L. 1. command spent her time indoors. Although many persons sent their cards up to her apartsents, only a few succeeded in seeing her. One of these was Mr Morgan, the Treasurer of the United States. Mr. Mor. gan is of high degree in the Masonic fraternity and came to pay his respects to the ex-queen as the widow of Gen. borninis, who was a thirty-third degree Mason.

No Report on the Treaty Yet, The Senate Committee on Foreign Re at one at its meeting yesterday morning prediction of last week to the effect that a report would be made on the Angloerican arbitration treaty. The whole matter went over until a neeting later in
